Hi, my name is Stuart Sidders and I produce all the maths video tutorials and worked solutions you may have viewed on my website ExamSolutions.net. My aim is to keep the site subscription free so that I can offer my work to as many students as I can to support them with their studies.

I know we all like things to be free but in all fairness if you are a school / college and you use my website, then please make a contribution.

This project is now in its 11th year and to date I have made over 3600 videos and more are continually updated or added most weeks when I am not developing or maintaining the website.

So please bear in mind the cost of a set of books, or the annual costs of the well known subscription sites when making a donation.

Please give whatever you can today to help me achieve my aim to pass on over 40 years of teaching experience and continue to make maths available to all those that need support.

Let's help change lives.

Thank you
